ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Picture Frame

A picture frame comprises several frame ledges—(10) being interconnectable via connecting elements—(12). For this connection, rod-shaped projections—(20) of the connecting elements—(12) are inserted into insertion pockets—(18). The connection is effected by friction so that the connecting elements—(12) and the frame ledges—(10) are releasably interconnected without a troublesome mounting being required to this end.
